PLANS. ELEVATED ROAD RUSSELL SAGE SPEAKS OF CHANGES

UNDER CONSIDERATION. THEY INCLUDE A THIRD TRACK AND A POSSIBLE

LOOP IN TWENTY-THIRD-ST. CONNECTING HE SAYS, IS THE MOST PRACTI-

CABLE MOTIVE POWER The activity and advance in the stock of the Manhattan Elevated Rallway revived yesterday the talk of a change in the methods of operating the road, and it was rumored that the scheme of three tracks was to be put through on the entire system, and that a loop would be built connecting the east and west lines. Russell Sage said last night that the report was partly true, but not entirely so. He corroborated the statement that the additional track for express trains, and a loop, possibly in Twenty-third-st., connecting the east and west lines, were being agitated; but he said that he was not in communication with the State Railroad Commission, and did not know what members of that Board favored the plan

"Recently, however," he added, "one of the commissioners opposed to the underground plan of rapid transit advocated the equipment of the elevated road with four tracks and the adoption of electricity as the motive power, with the belief that this would solve the rapid transit problem." Mr. Sage said that it was nonsense to talk of four tracks, and that steam was at present the most practicable power. "It is our wish, however," went on, "to take any reasonable measures that will afford a quick trip from Washington Heights to the Battery, and we have, as a matter of fact, formally considered the building of the third track. It would not be used for the express trains, but for switching the 'locals' upon when a right of way was desired for the express trains. It would be built on the Sixth or Ninth-ave, road to a point about as far uptown as Twenty-third-at., where the connecting line to the east would cross. This would afford rapid transit upon the East as well as the West Side. The entire system will not be equipped with the extra track at present, though that must come with time.

with the extra track at present, though that must come with time.

Mr. Sare expressed the opinion that the elevated roads would solve rapid transit more quickly than the underground road. "We have gradually been increasing our facilities for fast travel," he said. "and already have some trains that make a rate of thirty miles an hour. And, while the underground trolley and other surface roads have been put in operation, our passengers have doubled in number, so that we now carry more people than do two-thirds of the street roads of the country annually. In the seventeen years during which we have run, we have carried more than the combined population of the world, which is something like 1,500,000,000, and not a passenger has been killed as yet. Our wish is safety, comfort and economy, and if the local Commissioners desire, we should be glad to act with them in securing the very best facilities for the people."

SWARTHMORE GRADUATES ORGANIZE.

AN ADDRESS BY DR. E. H. M'GILL, FOR MANY YEARS PRESIDENT OF THE COLLEGE.

Swarthmore College Association of New York City and Vicinity was formally organized yesterday afternoon at the Friends' Meeting-House. Rutherfurd Place, and there were elected as officers for the first year George H. Strout, president: Harriett Cox McDowell, vice-president; Laura C. Mills, treasurer, and Frederick Hicks, secretary. Swarthmore College was one of the first of the co-educational colleges, and the local association will include both sexes in its mem-

The address of the session was made by Dr. Ed ward H. McGill, who was for twenty years the president of Swarthmore College, and who, upon his resignation from that office on account of advanced age, accepted the chair of the French Language and Literature, a position still held by

The story of Dr. McGill's own career and his rewith the institution with which he has been so long and honorably connected was told by him at the meeting yesterday.

"My life," said he, "has been curiously divided into quarters. I was born on September 24, 1825. On September 24, 1850, I entered the freshman class at Yale. On my fiftieth birthday, September 24, 1875. I received from the Swarthmore students the fourth quarter my heart is being gladdened by the concerning which I am going to tell you."

Dr. McGill then gave a brief sketch of his life. feature of interest was his entrance into Brown Wayland, the father of the modern eclectic system in college. This was a period of his career which wayland, the father of the modern effective system in college. This was a period of his career which later had great consequences in the adoption of Swarthmore's policy of instruction. In 1869 this well-known college of the Society of Friends opened its doors, and Dr. McGill was among its first instructors. This was just twenty-eight years after he had begun teaching, and as a coincidence Dr. McGill mentioned the fact that yesterday marked the twenty-eighth year since his entrance into the faculty of Swarthmore.

In speaking of the Swarthmore of to-day Dr. McGill referred to the late Samuel Willetts, the well-known Friend of New-York, as foremost in making the institution financially sound after the disastrous fire of 1881, which had swept away the entire college in a night. He also culogized his own successor, Fresident Charles De Garmo, who is president of the National Teachers' Association. Dr. McGill spoke of future plans at Swarthmore, and told some things not before generally known. There will soon be laid the cornerstone of a new men's symnasium, the building to cost $15,090. It is also proposed by the Board of Trustees to vaise the sum of $200,000 of which $200,000 is to go for the endowment of five professorships and $100,000 for a new library. Dr. McGill had hoped that the sum actually raised would greatly exceed the amount named.

The meeting was adjourned to meet in December

MICHELL AND ISTH REGIMENT PROPERTY. There was a rumor in Brooklyn yesterday that Harry W. Michell, late colonel of the 14th Regiment, N. G. N. Y., was going to be tried by court-martial on a charge of misappropriation of articles marini on a charge or misappropriation of articles belonging to the regiment's equipment. He was colonel of the 14th Regiment for twenty years. About four months ago he resigned, and only re-nel Michell declared last night that there was nothing in the :umor; that during the twenty years he was in charge of the regiment there was no account taken of its property. There was simply an estimate made every year of the prop-erty which the regiment should have, but no in-

He added that he had not been summoned to appear before a court-martial, but before the Board of Survey in Albany on January 2, and that if the Board was not perfectly satisfied with the explanation which would be made, and after the matter had been placed before it in its true light, he would refund the value of the property which it was deemed had been lost through fault or negligence on his part.

AGAINST RAPID TRANSIT.

EDWARD M. GROUT PLACES HIMSELF ON RECORD.

GRAPHICAL LINES IN INTEREST-AN INTERESTING DINNER AT THE MON

Grout, President-elect of the Borough of Brook-lyn, at the Montauk Club, in Brooklyn, last night, which was attended by many of the leading men in the city, Mr. Grout took occasion to put himself on record as strongly antagonistic to the rapid-transit proposition, which, he said, proposes to build up the annexed territory in the Bronx at the expense of the older and more thickly populated Borough of Brooklyn. He foreshadowed his attitude when he said, "perhaps it is my weakness to feel more at home in a fight than at a feast." He went so far as to intimate that, unless the rapid-transit proposition was defeated hereafter Brooklyn would vote in the municipal elections strictly along geo-graphical lines, and, ignoring party distinctions, unite to see that the interests of Brooklyn were well taken care of. The charter was criticised because it does not allow the President of the Bor-ough of Brooklyn to vote in the Board of Local Improvement on such propositions as that of rapid transit. Among the other speakers of the evening were Charles A. Moore, the president of the club, who was toastmaster; St. Clair McKelway, the Rev. Dr. S. D. McConnell and Judge William J.

Colonel Albert E. Lamb attacked Brooklyn as being bankrupt. He declared th

PROGRAMME OF THE PERFORMANCE IN AID OF THE NEW-YORK INFIRMARY FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

The benefit performance under the auspices of the students of the Woman's Medical College in aid of the New-York Infirmary for Women and Children, at the Knickerbocker Theatre on Friday afternoon, promises to be unusually brilliant. The boxes have netted over $1,000, and will be occupied by wellknown society women who are interested in this charity and in the performance. What will lend additional charm is the fact that among the young hostesses, in their caps and gowns, will be a grand-daughter of Samuel Willers, one of the incorpo-rators of the college. Another is the granddaughter of Dr. H. Marion Syms, and still another is a niece of Dr. McBurney. Professor Youmans also lends a daughter to medicine

The programme includes Nat C. Goodwin and Miss Maxine Elliott in a sketch entitled "The Silent System"; Miss Julia Arthur and company in a one-act play, "One Touch of Nature"; Miss May Irwin in some of her best songs, accompanied by Ned Wayburn, her "rag-time" plants; the Lyceum Theatre Company in a dramatic sketch. "Yellow Roses," by Sir Charles Young, author of "Jim the Penman": Miss Adrienne Remeny! in Chammade songs, and the Rubinstein Club Double Quartet.

Among the trustees and patronesses who have bought boxes and seats are Mrs. John Ctaffin, Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, Miss Julia B. de Forest, Mrs. Louis C. Tiffany, Mrs. F. F. Thompson, Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes, Mrs. O. B. Jennings, Mrs. James C. Fargo, Mrs. Robert Hoe, Howard Ford, Mrs. Gilbert E. Jones, John Drew, Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer, Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart, Mrs. Charles de Rham, Jr., Amos F. Eno, Mrs. Edwin Gould, Mrs. Merrit Trimble, Mrs. Hugh J. Auchincloss, Mrs. D. M. Stimson, Miss Callender, Miss De Forest, the Misses Gregory, Mrs. Walter B. Cutting and Miss Mary Garrett. Tickets are for sale at the box office and at Tyson's. taken to Sing Sing yesterday and placed in the cell of the death-house that he will occupy until he leaves it to go to the electric chair. He was taken from the Queens County Jall yesterday morning soon after 7 o'clock handcuffed to Police Captals Methyen, who acted as his guardian all through the trial. Sheriff Doht also accompanied him. A crowd of considerable proportions was waiting to see the murderer led forth, and followed him as he was taken aboard a trolley-car bound for the Thirty-fourth-st. ferry. When the trio arrived in they got to the Grand Central Station Thorn was recognized, and a big crowd followed him into the station to watch him get aboard the 8 o'clock train station to watch him get aboard the 8 o'clock train for Sing Sing. Sheriff Doht and Captain Methyen took their prisoner into the smoking-car, where they kept him throughout the journey, arriving at Sing Sing a little before 9 o'clock.

Warden Sage met the party at the entrance to the prison, and Thorn was given into the keeping of the prison guards, who took him to the deathhouse. He expressed pleasure at getting away from New-York. Two guards have been detailed to watch him constantly. Thorn's companions in how wholesome and pleasant a good bite of luxury is now and then, and how eager people are for it. So she bestowed herself and gathered here not only a simple fare, but nectar and ambrosia for Christmas treating. Flemish tapestries, soft and decorative in coloring and quaint in design as those of which mediæval Princes were so fond, that they even carried them to the wars to decorate their tents Old Oriental rugs that glow with color and possess a sheen and richness that no other textile ever approached. Chairs, rich with carvings so artistically thought out and so vigorously chiselled that Grinling Gibbons himself might envy the art and skill they show.

Sofas, settles and tables, wonderful for the refined beauty and rich coloring of their mar-

What fare to treat with! Not even the Olympic ambrosia could confer such constant, everincreasing delight as you obtain at factory
